M. D. RIBSTONE COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES

Regular meeting of the Council, Municipal District of Ribstone No. 421 was held at Chauvin, Saturday, May 7th at 1.30 p.m.

All members were present, Reeve Ferguson presided.

Minutes of last preceding meeting were read, and Councillor Sewell moved that same be adopted as read. Carried.

Councillor Sewell reported that he had been to see the proposed new road on Eardley's farm, and he recommended that the South fence be moved back and this would make the road passable. Mr. Eardley had promised to set back the fence as soon as he was through seeding.

Mrs. Eardley and Mr. Royce attended the meeting. Mrs Eardley was not willing to allow any other trail to be used except the road recommended by Councillor Sewell. Mr. Royce did not want to use this proposed road. After a lively discussion, Reeve Ferguson requested the hour to hear the decision of the Council.

The Council then thoroughly discussed the matter of the proposed road and decided to accept the recommendation of Councillor Sewell.

Councillor McCluskey moved that the South fence on Eardley's farm be moved back and that the road on the south line be used for public purposes; the gates to be used as at present until the fence is moved back and that the previous motion of the Council in regard to this road be rescinded. Carried.

The parties were so informed.

All accounts presented were ordered paid.

Councillor Dumont moved that the following rates be paid for the current year for road work: Man only .35c; Man and team, .55c; Man and four horses, .75c; Brush cutting, .40c Foreman .15c extra per hour, with the provision that the extra rate for Foreman will not apply where there are less than three other persons employed besides the foreman. Carried.

Councillor Sewell moved that the sum of $10,000 be spent for road purposes during the current year. Car'd.

Letter from Mr H. V. Strachan was read and referred to Councillor Sewell for attention, on motion of Councillor Dumont. Carried.

Letter from the Ribstone Women's Institute was read; re repairs and painting for Municipal Hall. Councillor Sewell moved that the secretary be authorized to see that glass be put in where panes are broken, but nothing be done in regard to painting at present time. Carried.

Secretary reported that Mr Roy was willing to pay his arrears of taxes on the land sold at the last Tax Sale, if the council would not charge him the 10 per cent penalty. After some discussion the council decided that this was beyond their authority and the matter was so left.

An account was read from Mrs Partlow for board of E. Rockey. Secretary was instructed to make full enquiries into this matter, and ascertain if the better plan would be to apply for deportation.

Councillor McCluskey moved that A. C. Nachtergaele be appointed auditor for the current year at a salary of $150 per annum. Carried.

A SQUARE DEAL FOR THE SETTLER

Is the Aim of the Western Canada Colonization Association. It Can Be Realized through Co-operation from the Prairie Provinces. Legislation Necessary To Ensure Success

By J. W. DAFOE, Editor-in-Chief of The Manitoba Free Press

In times of difficulty and distress the dependence of all sections of the community upon one another is revealed far more clearly than in periods of abounding prosperity when the need for co-operative action is not so apparent.

At the moment Canada is faced with a problem of immense magnitude; how to induce the rapid and successful development of the vacant lands in the West in proximity to the railway lines.

The old immigration movement—the combined result of many independent agencies, among them the Government, railways and land companies—was pretty well over before the war came to put a complete stop to enterprize of this character.

Now the factors of the problem are so changed that the old agencies, if they could be revived and get back to work again, could not renew their old successes. Everything is changed; the character of the settlers required, the nature of the appeal that must be made to secure them, and the machinery by which they may be transported and placed in locations where their presence will be advantageous country.

The immigrants most needed are people who will come with a view to securing form homes for themselves; they must have a moderate amount of capital now that there are no more free homesteads, and experience of is desirable. There is no lack in the world of people of this type to whom the prospect of a home in Western Canada, if it could be brought before them, it would make an irresistible appeal, just as there are available for them the very homes they desire if some method can be found to bring the vacant lands and the homeseeker together.

The Western Colonization Association has come into existence in the expectation that it will be able to render a great public service by devising and carrying out plans by the which desirable immigrants in other lands over the sea, or south of the line, will be secured, brought to Western Canada, placed on suitable land and given such encouragement as may be necessary to make him a contented and prosperous settler.

The Western Canada Colonization will devote its energy primarily to inducing the right kind of settler to come to Canada. It will do this work in co-ordination with every agency existing or hereafter to be called into being devoted to the same purpose. The more the better provided they work towards a common object and cooperate to this end.

The Association is not a land selling agency. It has no interest in any particular district, and is not concerned in the disposal of privately held lands. Yet it is very obvious that if settlers are secured for Western Canada they will require land. If they can get the land they require at the price they can afford to pay, in a locality that meets with their wishes, the plan will work. After the first thousand settlers are successfully placed the current of immigration will set in.

DISTRICT ODDFELLOWS CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY AT CHAUVIN SUNDAY LAST

Sunday last, the 102nd anniversary of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, will long be remembered by the members of the Wainwright, Edgerton and Chauvin lodges; and also by the members of the sister order, the Rebekahs.

This anniversary was made the occasion to exhibit the "get-together" spirit by holding a united meeting at Chauvin. Several serious handicaps had to be overcome before the idea could be carried out; the cessation of the Sunday train service, and the impassable condition of the roads for automobiles. Pressure was brought to bear upon the railroad company, who, at the eleventh hour consented to make special stops at Edgerton and Chauvin. Had they consented earlier a larger number of country brothers and sisters would have been able to turn out to the meeting.

Upon the arrival of the train a procession was formed and marched to the hall, headed by the Wainwright band. The afternoon service was preceded by a muster of the members of the assembled lodges, who again headed by the band, paraded the town. Rev. Bro. Maddocks, of Edgerton, assisted by Rev. Bros. Miller and Revelle, officiated at the service. The sermon from the text "Go thou and do thou likewise" was deeply inspirational and thoroughly impressed his audience with the sacred duty of brotherly service and mercy. Rev. Bro. Maddocks described Friendship and Truth as the two outer links of the emblem of the order bound together with the principle link of Love.

A social hour was then spent by the visiting brothers and sister, while the band rendered a long programme of music, and refreshments served.

A humorous incident occurred at the depot, a train being seen coming along hearty cheers were accorded to Wainwright, Edgerton, the Rebekahs, an to the band,—the train turned out to be a freight. The band helped to pass the time by playing more music, and Jeff surprised them all by turning up with his bagpipes.

The visiting brothers from Wainwright: D. Davison; J. Forrest; W. J. Huntingford; H. Jamieson; G. Fuller; E. West; G. Cross; E. Cork; A. Mills; C. Bowen; H. Fieldhouse; R. Dunsmore; R. Woods; J. Sutherland; D. Hansen.

SHAUGHNESSY'S PLAN

The railway situation in Canada, now admittedly the greatest financial problem confronting the nation, even greater than the war debt which has now reached its limit, is, in the light of the letter and statement of Lord Shaughnessy, Chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway Board, more capable of solution at this juncture than had been thought possible up to the present time.

It was rumored some time ago that the government had made representations to the Canadian Pacific heads regarding proposed adjustments in the management of the Canadian National system, but far more important and vital to the success of the government lines under management of men taken from the Canadian Pacific system, would be an execution plan to absorb the Canadian Pacific, taking all its big railway heads, and its operating system, putting all the railways in Canada under the auspices of the Canadian people. This seems almost too much to hope for in the dream of government ownership of railways which has been the cherished principle of so many thoughtful Canadians for these many years.

It is altogether a different matter having the proposal of such a gigantic in the position of Lord Shaughnessy, than having to force such an issue either by public opinion, or the exigencies of a continuation of our present ruinous Canadian National policy. It is so different, too, from having the whole National system pass back into private management, even under the great and competent management of the Canadian Pacific. The position of Lord Shaughnessy must be seriously considered by the Meighen government and now that parliament is sitting and has yet to deal with the railway estimates, the greatest possible results from the scheme can be fully exposed.

There ought to be no thought of a political issue in this great problem, and the devotion of all political groups in parliament to the successful solution of this issue would keep it from becoming a football for the next elections.

Lord Shaughnessy has sent a lengthy memorandum attached to his letter to Premier Meighen, in which he goes very deeply into the fundamental obstacles to successful financing of the Canadian National under its present policy, and quotes many comparative figures. The great railroad executive is opposed to the policy of taking over the Grand Trunk, that belief in his judgement unnecessary to the success of the proposed amalgamation scheme. In this connection he says:

"Even at this advanced stage it would be wise for the Dominion government to drop all measures looking to the acquisition or control of the Grand Trunk, to relieve that company of all obligations in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific, and to grant easy terms covering a period of years for the repayments of any amounts advanced by the government to the Grand Trunk or secured on the credit of the government in the last two years."

After quoting some figures to prove his analysis, Lord Shaughnessy continues:

"In the light of these figures present conditions would not be improved, but when we must take into account the saving that would result from the consolidation by the elimination of unnecessary train service and of duplicate work, at important terminals and at other points, the restriction of work on unnecessary duplicate lines; the decrease in general as well as traffic and agency expenditures; the common use of cars and locomotives, reducing to a minimum capital expenditures on that account with greater economy in the maintenance of equipment and the stoppage of outlay in many other directions."

And he concludes his important memorandum:

"I am not giving expression to these views as chairman, director or shareholder of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and it is quite possible that neither my fellow directors nor the shareholders would be in accord. The Canadian Pacific with its low capitalization and capacity for securing and handling a vast volume of traffic, should as time passes yield a any time in the past. Indeed, about larger return to its owners than at this there is little room for doubt. But with a satisfactory annual dividend guaranteed in perpetuity by the Canadian government, the shareholders could probably be induced to forego their speculative benefits, as their shares would then have the security and stability of government bonds.

"It is my sole purpose to assist, if I can in the solution of what is beyond doubt the most serious and menacing problem that faces our country, and to frankly outline the policy that I would adopt and carry into effect, if the responsibility were upon me to act as the representative and trustee of the Canadian people in safeguarding the present and future railway transportation interests of the Dominion, and in endeavoring to stop, or at any rate minimize the vast demands on the treasury and the credit of the country that are pretty sure to be made yearly if the present policy is continued.

WHAT TO DO?

To the farmer who produced wheat and who is still holding it for a better price, this question is a vital one. He paid in the neighbourhood of $2.50 for seed; $75 to $90 a month, plus board for labor; $225.00 for a drill; $275.00 for a binder; .20c to .50c per bushel for threshing; and a freight rate of from .14c to .25c, depending upon his location.

He has seen the price of his dearly grown product swing from $2.85 to less than $1.50. If he is still holding, he is beginning to wonder whether or not it would be wise to let go.

It is stated on good authority that Great Britain, who is usually our best customer for wheat, was out of the market from July to November, and it is the natural conclusion that this lack of buying was the chief cause of the slump in prices. Through large purchases made in the United States last summer, and through the further buying from the Argentine and China, the British Wheat Commission was able to lay up a surplus sufficient to last several months. Until recently, therefore, the United Kingdom, has almost completely ignored our 1920 wheat crop.

In a recent issue of a leading financial publication it is pointed out that up to the end of last September commercial loans (which include loans to farmers) in Canada had increased by three hundred and fifty-nine millions, as against an increase in the total deposits of seventy-nine millions. Irrespective of call loans, commercial loans had in one year increased four and a half times as fast as deposits of all classes. The inevitable result of this would be that money, or credit would become scarce, as the banks could not lend what they did not have. In the United States, in spite of the large holdings of gold in that country the stringency is still worse. During recent months fifty-nine banks across the line have closed their doors.

In Kansas the grain growers are reported to have gone on what is called—rather inappropriately—a "strike for $3 what," and many producers in grain for better prices. We do not question the propriety of this. We believe the farmers have a right to take any lawful measures which in their judgement, seem best to protect their legitimate profits, but those who have entered into this holding movement should be quite clear in their own minds as to just what they are doing. The farmer who chooses to hold wheat in anticipation of a rise in price is simply speculating on the long side of the market. If he owns the wheat and has incurred no pressing debts in the growing of it, the speculation may be quite proper, but there is no assurance that it will bring the desired results.

It is estimated that for the crop year ending next June, Europe will import five hundred and twenty million bushels of wheat, and other countries forty millions. Officials estimate that the United States can spare two hundred and fifty million bushels. The Canadian surplus is placed at all the way from one hundred and sixty to two hundred millions. It was estimated that Australia will have one hundred and ten million bushels for export, and the Argentine one hundred and twenty millions. If these estimates prove correct, there will be six hundred and forty million bushels available to supply a demand of five hundred and sixty millions. If Canadian and American farmers hold their wheat off the market for any length of time, such a policy will have a tendency to attract Argentine and Australian wheat to European markets. So that our farmers may find that they are holding up the price, whilst their southern competitors are unloading, and in the end our farmers may be compelled to sell at a figure substantially under what they would have obtained had they sold in the ordinary course.

This holding movement is very much like that other difficult operation of "having the bull by the tail" holding on may be quite safe, but the really dangerous part of the operation is in letting go.

It is not easy to predict the future prices, and while wheat may go higher, there is the possible depressing factor that we have just mentioned—a good crop in the Argentine and Australia.

Some farmers who could have taken $2.85 for their wheat at the beginning of the season, but who decided to wait for $3.00, have found that it does not pay to hold too long.

It would, therefore, seem to be the part of wisdom for farmers to follow a gradual policy of marketing, to sell as far as possible on the occasions when the market shows strength, and not to hold out for the last nickel. Such a policy will help to relieve the strain on credit, and will assist in bringing prices for all commodities back to a normal level.

RED CROSS MAKING CANADA A BETTER PLACE TO LIVE IN

Modern science has found that a great many of the diseases of mankind are preventable; and before the war great progress had been made in arresting the spread of them, according to local Red Cross officials. But the war stepped in and diverted the attention of medical men from the work of arresting and preventing disease to binding up the wounds of men broken in the battle field and assisting those who were not mortally wounded to regain their health as speedily as possible.

monstrated that typhus was almost stamped out of civilized countries and small pox was becoming infrequent.

The active campaign of the Red Cross includes much more educational matter for residents of the Dominion that will prevent such diseases as those mentioned above from gaining a foothold. Many diseases result from insanitary conditions and a too care-bringing good health and happiness.

From June 5th to 11th the Canadian Red Cross will institute a membership campaign all across the Dominion, in an endeavour to have every person who supported the Red Cross in war time put their shoulders to the wheel for the work that will make this country a better place to live in. Membership in this society only costs one dollar a year and the Red Cross officials anticipate that the response will be very gratifying.

When a girl invites a young man for dinner and he is told that she did the cooking it's time for him to sit up and take notice or beat a hasty retreat.

Gunmen can be hired in Chicago for $50 each according to evidence given in a court case at Saskatoon recently. Living costs may be high in Chicago, but life is cheap.

Canadians were told some time ago that if the sugar refineries lowered their prices from somewhere in the region of twenty dollars per hundred pounds to something like twelve or thirteen dollars ruination would stare them in the face and payrolls would virtually cease to be. Several refineries reduced their prices from eleven to ten and a half dollars the other day. Has anybody heard about any of the plants closing down?

It is stated that smoking will not be allowed on the Fort Norman "All Air" line. Passengers however, are at liberty to indulge in pipe dreams.

Your Red Cross Calls

Red Cross to-day is the vision of a wonderful ideal. Faith and effort can carry it to a glorious reality.

Its peace-time mission is to save lives and to help the suffering, exactly as it was on the battlefield.

It can ward off disease from your child and mine and the child that is yet unborn and make the world a better place for him to live in. It can ward off pestilence and contagion from your own community and so protect us all. It can help weld all the people of our country and of all the other countries into the common brotherhood of sympathy that is so necessary now if humanity is to keep to the path of progress.

Red Cross has not forgotten the crippled, the blinded, the helpless, or the simply unsettled remnants of war, in our hospitals and throughout our land.

She remembers them, and has the resources and devotion to care for them, but she also has a new and a broad work to do for which your endorsement is now asked.

The membership enrolment is a nation-wide reminder to everyone who has ever helped the Red Cross, or been helped by it—and who has not—to renew their allegiance to its sacred emblem, identify themselves by their membership with its effort to better the condition of humanity at home, throughout our Dominion, all over the world.

When you could see with your own eyes that your son was in danger and could be helped, you did not hesitate. You can still see the dangers that surround him everywhere, if you will but look with the eyes of understanding.

Learn all about the Red Cross Mission for health. Join the Red Cross and enlist in its crusade.

A SQUARE DEAL FOR THE SETTLER

Is the Aim of the Western Canada Colonization Association. It Can Be Realized through Cooperation from the Prairie Provinces. Legislation Necessary To Ensure Success

steadily and will never cease until the vacant places in the West are filled. But the successful placing of the settler after he is secured is the very foundation stone of the enterprise. Lacking it the movement must fail. The Western Canada Colonization Association have asked the people of Western Canada to attend themselves to this matter, of such vital importance to them, through the agency of their own Provincial Government.

Dated at Wainwright, Alberta, this first day of May, A.D. 1921

H. P. MAY,

J. A. MACKENZIE

Mary McFarland, Witness

In a memorial presented to the Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta by the Association the outlines of the proposed plan are drawn. Briefly, each Government is asked to create a Land Board for its Province which will list all vacant lands with prices fixed for two years and issue maps and literature showing the location of this land and giving the facts as to the price and the character of the soil. Provision is made insuring a reasonable valuation and owners will be asked to name agents empowered to make sales

If this plan is carried out the Western Canada Colonization Association and every other immigration agency operating outside Canada will be able to put into the hands of the prospective immigrant the information which will make his removal to a new home in Western Canada a business investment instead of a highly speculative venture. He will be able to decide beforehand the district to which he is to go and he will know that when he arrives he will be able to get the land he requires without delay and without uncertainty. The road will be straight before him and the goal will be in sight.

The beneficial effect upon immigration of an arrangement like this which will offer the incoming settler the assurance of considerate treatment and a square deal, will be beyond calculation. It will remove too from the whole movement the incubus of the suspicion that it is a device for selling land for speculators and put it in its proper light as a great co-operative disinterested attempt to do a real public service—that of settling the empty spaces of the West with all the incalculable benefits that will follow, in which every interest and every industry will share: the local municipality and school district, the local merchant and railways, the provinces, the cities, and in fact the whole Dominion.

Short Stories Of A Soldier's Life

Well after we got started again, my temper gave way and I called them all the things that I thought fitted them and to prove to them that I knew what I was doing, I told them that there was a small bush, about 2 ft. high, on the top of the sunken and that from then I was hitting in the direction of it. I might say that I missed running into the bush by a mere fraction, about ten yards.

All the rest of the way I was sizing the pair up and had a notion to report them for refusing to come with me. If I had they might have got nothing done to them and then again they might have been handed out 6 months. I certainly didn't like the idea of having them as runners, but decided as I got nearer to the H.C. to hand them over and say nothing about it.

We arrived in due course at the headquarters and I reported to the Adj. They did not know until then that the line had had to drop back and were surprised. After showing the Adj. and Col. where the present line was (roughly), on the map, and after handing over the runners to the *th Adj., who was there, I started back for my funk hole. When I got outside again it was getting very light and I thought that I was lucky to be back before the light had come.

As soon as I got to the rear sunken road I turned toward the hole to have a sleep and started back, with an exclamation, for the hole had been blown up by a shell just as had the one I had been in before. Well I thought that I was sure some lucky son-of-a-gun, there was twice that I had missed death by being up on duty. I turned into the entrance of the dugout and going down I asked the Sergt., (who had just awoke from a doze,) who had been in the funk hole of mine when the shell dropped in and spoiled the party. He told me that two of our fellows had been there. One was McDermid but I forgot the other man's name. After it got a little lighter I went out and had a close look at the hole. It was knocked in by a shell having dropt on the back of it. The explosion of the shell had torn the men to ribbons and there was very little left of them to identify them by. McDermid had been identified by a portion of his pay book that was found.

Gee! I was sleepy and so I went a little further up one side of the road and crawled into another funk hole and was, after blowing the air pillow up to lay my head on, soon fast asleep.

I awoke with a start, and I could not tell you what had awoke me. It close to the funk hole or maybe it was the sun that was coming through a niche in the entrance cover. Anyway I was wide awake and I could tell by the position of the sun that I had had a pretty good sleep, as sleeps went out there at that time. After stretching myself in the most approved fashion I crawled to the outside of the hole and out into the roadway.

Seeing some bags of rations on the side of the roadway I suddenly found out that I was ravenously hungry, so I proceeded to investigate to find out what there would be to eat for breakfast. Turning one of the bags upside down, a stream of jam tins came from the interior, which tins I looked over very carefully. It was not very often that a man got his choice of jam in this fashion and so it was a job to deliberate over. After I had got the pile looked over to my satisfaction, I decided to have the tin of strawberry jam that I had picked out during the hunt and so I lost no time in opening the tin. Now you did not very often run into a tin of strawberry jam out there and what you did run into was mostly candied pretty bad, but I'll say that this was the pure dope for the blues. After I had the tin open in my hand, I walked over to my haversack and felt inside for biscuits. Someone had taken my biscuits and so I just went a little somebody else. Just then Malone who was sitting inside a funk hole at the side of the road called to me to go over to him. I had not seen him since the afternoon before so I went over and stood talking to him while I was putting some of the jam on to one of the biscuits. I could not tell you rightly what caused me to turn but I think that it was the feeling of having someone watching me that made me do it, anyway I turned and there was the Sgt. about 20 feet from me with his eyes wide open with surprise. When he could get his mouth to open so that he could speak he asked. "Where the devil have you been Bradley?" I told him. "Say," he said, seeming to suddenly wake up, "Get up to advanced headquarters as fast as you can go, McLean and I have been looking all over for you for half an hour. Nobody knew where you were and we were beginning to think that you had been killed." "Very happy thought," said I, "But say I'm hungry and want to have something to eat first, guess it will be all right, eh?" "To the devil with anything to eat," said the noble Tommy. "Get up there as fast as you can." Well I had not as yet touched the jam and it seemed a horrible shame to go away and leave a tin of good strawberry jam to look after itself. After due deliberation I decided to leave the jam with Malone. He said that he would keep some for me to eat when I got back. So without further trouble I started for the forward headquarters. I might say that I was eating a biscuit all the way up the trench and that I continued to eat it during all the time that I was in headquarters..

When I got to headquarters I pushed my way down into the dugout and asked if Lieut. McLean was there. On being informed that he was there I pushed on to the headquarters. MacLean saw me come in they got a bunch of maps out on the table and we started to go over the line, on the map. I showed them where we were situated, at present, up in front and then we planned a route over to the Hessian trench which we thought was held by the enemy. I was beginning to wonder what it was all about when the officer said, "It's a daylight patrol, Bradley?" and the tone he used was as much as to say, "What do you think of it, are you game?" Well I never thought about the consequences of a daylight patrol and never gave a moments thought of the hard job it would be to go unconcealed down to the Hessian Trench. I just thought it would be a grand thing to do and as my nerve was one of the best at that time, it did not matter to me whether there was sure death in it or not.

Without any further delay we started to go up to the new line and we went on our hands and knees nearly all the way from the sunken road. But before going further I would like to tell you what happened to the machine gunners that had held us up on the previous day. Just as we got to the sunken road, I saw Malone come sneaking along behind us and about 200 yards down the road. He cut over the road and by the attitude that he was in I knew that he was after something. Before we had started to go over the top towards the front line we heard two shots fired and afterwards learned from him that it was the report of two that he fired to kill the crew of the enemy machine gun.

There was a lot of thistles on this piece of open ground and before we got to the front, our hands were full of spikes from them. After a long tiresome crawling stunt we arrived at the line and we went down it and took a look over it, fixing up one of the maps we had brought with us, by putting down the location of the lines as near as we could without instruments.

When we had this all finished, we found ourselves at the right of the line and decided to go out there. The officer handed the map we had fixed to the officer who was with us and told him to send it back by runner right away.

We now proceeded to get a runner for our own use. If we got into the German trench we decided to send the runner back to the front line with either knowledge that the Hun held the line or that he did not do so, and for this reason we needed a good man to take with us for this purpose. Finally I saw runner Brown and we got him. I knew that he would be the man for the job. After getting the runner we again proceeded to the right of the line and the officer said to me, "Go ahead Bradley," and I lead out into No-Mans-Land.

Now to this day I could not tell you what instinct prompted me to walk over the top the way that I now did. It may have been the training that I had had that instinctively made me go over the top in this fashion without thinking of the possible consequences, or it may not have been anything of the sort, but after thinking over the problem afterwards I can see that it was far the best thing to do. Afterwards, when I was sniping, I lots of times thought of what I would do if I was to see a Hun coming over the top right into my arms so to speak, and I came to the conclusion that I would try to capture him if possible and that I would shoot at him, only as a last resource.

Well as I say I now got up onto the parapet and after a look around I commenced to walk over to the enemies trench without a thought other than that I might have to use the revolver, that I had in my hand, with a little more speed and accuracy than I had ever before been called upon to exhibit, and I was quite certain of myself in that direction for I was a rather good revolver shot.

When I had got about 100 yards out into the mass of shell holes the officer came out of the trench, the runner was right behind me about 20 yards and about this point I was certain that we were making rather a big mistake and that we were taking chances that we could avoid, so I dropped into a shell hole and waited for the officer to come up with us. The runner came into the shell-hole and sat opposite me, he did not speak to me and I was too busy figuring out my scheme to be bothered with him so I did not talk either and there was a reign of silence until the officer came into the hole that we were sat in. As soon as the officer got up to us he said to me in a half whisper, "What did you stop for? Did you see something?" "Yes," I answered with ardor, "I've seen a lot in the last few minutes." He asked me what I meant and then I told him right from the shoulder that I thought that we were going, down the run we were in, a little foolishly and that if we were to go back to the trench and go on our hands and knees to the top of the rise that was on our left we would be unseen until we jumped to our feet and made a run for the trench which would only then be about 20 yards I said that it was more or less certain that we had been watched all the way out so far and that the Hun had us have been sheer foolishness to shoot at us and that we stood very little chance in going forward as he, the enemy could see us for a mile or more back of his lines and he could also see us to the left and to the right.

I said if he had anyone watching, they would sure watch the low spots and that they would never think of a couple of men coming over the skyline. But it was no use talking and although I argued for about a quarter of an hour he could not see my point of the argument. Finally I got tired of staying there and saying, "Well you are taking as much chance as I am." I started to go forward again and that was the last time that I saw the officer for 6 months.

I was walking forward watching everything and very conscious of the fact that no doubt a few Huns had their rifles trained on my body. It could not be otherwise for there we were going in broad daylight right into the enemies' arms and of course as I have already explained it would have been sheer foolishness to shoot us for we would be far better to them as prisoners and it sure looked to them, I guess, as if we were walking right into their arms.

Well you can't go walking over No-Man's-Land for ever without seeing something and though I was watching as I had never watched before in my life I noticed nothing until I was within about 20 yards of the trench that I was bound for. Of course I had realized by this time that there were none of the enemy in the Hessian trench. As I was picking my way forward through the maze of shell holes, and not a few dead men, I noticed something move about 150 yards ahead, and without seemingly having seen the movement. I watched the place. I made out the outline of a German steel helmet and decided to take a pot at the head of the man, with my revolver and at the same time to run to the trench, in a dodging manner.

With caution I raised my revolver, and I looked over to the left of the line, for I did not want the Hun to suspect that I had seen him. The revolver was coming up nicely and I figured that I would soon bring things to a show down when, I was knocked half way round and I looked to see what had happened to my arm, for it was swinging to and fro like a pendulum, I noticed that there was a neat round hole in my sleeve. I instantly knew that it had been caused by a bullet. I had seen the slight flash of the rifle, out of the corner of my eye, and I realized that I had been shot at and that my arm was broken between the elbow and the shoulder. I was not for a minute or so in any pain for the shock had seemed to take a counteraction on that, but grabbing my injured arm at the wrist, with the left hand, as it swung towards the front, I jumped into the nearest shell hole.

B. C. EMERGES FROM THREE YEARS DRY PERIOD

New Liquor Act Instead Of Prohibition, Had 40,000
Majority

VICTORIA, B.C.—With the coming into force of the British Columbia liquor act, the province emerges from a three and a half year "dry" period. The present act is the result of the referendum taken on October 20th last throughout the province, when the people emphatically voted for the sale of liquor in sealed packages by the government. The majority in favor of repealing the prohibition act was about 40,000.

The prohibition act which closed the bars and all public drinking places throughout the province, came into force on the first day of October 1917, during the war, when the people by a small majority voted to prohibit the sale of liquor except by government liquor under the prohibition act, it was necessary to first obtain a prescription from a medical doctor for which a fee of $2.00 was charged. The maximum quantity purchaseable from a government dispensary was two gallons of liquor. So great was the rush on dispensaries and so many prescriptions were being issued, that the government at the session of the legislature in 1920, amended the prohibiting act, prohibiting the sale by government dispensaries of more than eight ounces on a doctor's prescription.

In 1919 a move was made to have the prohibition act repealed and this meant agreed to submit the question of future liquor legislation to the people. A moderation league was organized to work for the repeal of the act, the object of the organization being to secure the sale of liquor under government control. No one desired the return of the open bar or of liquor legislation existing before the bringing into force of the prohibition act. It was claimed that bootlegging was rampant throughout the province, and that a measure which would permit of the sale of liquor under proper control would be preferable to the prohibition act. The prohibitionists fought for the retention of the prohibition act, but the moderationists won.

At the last session of the legislature, which closed but a few weeks ago, the new liquor act was passed, following weeks of discussion. It will be administered by a board of three appointed by the government. Its chairman is A. M. Johnson, who prior to his appointment was deputy attorney general for British Columbia. J. H. Falconer, Vancouver, a prominent business man of the province and president of the British Columbia Manufacturers' Association, and Lieut.-Col. W. N. Winsby, Victoria, public school inspector.

The headquarters of the board is in for the province is in Vancouver. It is expected that the sale of liquor during the first year under government control will amount to $20,000,000. The government has promised that half the profits will be handed over to the municipalities.

Under the British Columbia Liquor Act government stores are established throughout the province for the sale istered by the Liquor control board of liquor. These stores are administered and each vendor is an employee of the board. Sales must only be made to those persons holding a government permit for the purchase of liquor and this permit along with a written order for liquor must be presented at the time of purchase. Delivery of liquor can only be made in sealed packages, and consumption of liquor on store premises is not allowed. Liquor stores will not remain open for more than eight hours a day.

Persons applying for a liquor permit must be of the full age of 21 years, and have resided in the province for at least one month. The fee for a permit limited to a single purchase of liquor is 50 cents. This entitles the purchaser to buy a maximum quantity of two quarts of liquor other than malt liquor, or twelve quarts of malt liquor.

RED CROSS LEADS IN EDUCATION OF YOUNG IN HEALTH MINISTRY

One of the most interesting phases of the peace time program of the Red Cross Society is the establishment of Junior Red Cross, members of which are school children.

The Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta lead all other parts of the British Empire in the number of Red Cross Juniors, and each of these provinces aim to enlist a Junior membership of 50,000 by the end of the Membership enrollment, June 11.

The following are the objects of the Junior Red Cross Movement.

1. To enlist the services of our children and young people on behalf of suffering childhood and the needs of those children less fortunately situated home or abroad, especially children of soldiers or those suffering as a result of the Great War.
2. To encourage through unselfish sacrifice and the knowledge of human needs those broadening interests and intelligent sympathies which make for a growth of true citizenship and a better understanding between nations and people.
3. To furnish to children and young people a useful and healthy outlet for their energies and definite purposes for which their talents may be employed.
4. Through Junior Branches to make Red Cross services applicable needs of children and young people.

WHOLESALE PRICES IN U.S.
AND CANADA COMPARED

NEW YORK.—An interesting comparison of the trend of wholesale prices in Canada and in the United States, is printed by the Wall Street Journal. The Canadian statistics are taken from the report of the Canadian Department of Labor, while those of the United States were compiled by the Federal Reserve board. The Journal shows that wholesale prices in Canada declined 4 per cent during February, while a decline of 6 per cent, was reported in the United States.

The Journal continues "Index number for the United States reached the peak, 264, in May 1920. Since that time it has declined to the present figure, 154, a decline of 110.

"Index number for Canada reached peak the same month it did in the United States. Peak was 263, just one point below that reached in this country. The decline in the Canadian index number has been 64 as compared with 110 in the United States.

"In both countries prices began to ease off gradually but a greatly accelerated decline occurred the last three months of 1920. Fall has been less rapid the first two months of this year and many bankers interpret this to mean that we are approaching a period of relative price stability.

WHOLESALE DISTRIBUTING CONTINUES TO INCREASE
OVER COUNTRY ORDERS

A continuance in the increase of wholesale distribution mostly through activity in country orders, is shown in the weekly trade report of the Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association.

Conditions in Montreal and district are reported as unchanged from last week with fine weather stimulating certain lines. Hardware, grocery and ladies wear lines report business fair. Collections in the east are reported "slow to fair," and Montreal failures are on the decline. Only seven were reported during the week.

The gradual trade improvement is being sustained in the Toronto district.

Winnipeg and the West are busy in certain lines and slow in others. Improved weather conditions have brought in country orders better for the last month. Sorting business is active in most lines: ladies wear, hardware and boots and shoes fairly good and other lines variable. Collections, while a little better than last month, are still too slow for credit departments. Retailers report decided improvement in trade.

WORLDS COMING WHEAT CROP PROSPECTS GOOD

LONDON.—The prospects of the coming world's wheat crop are favorable and the harvest is likely to produce enough to meet the world's demand, says Sir James Wilson, Chairman of the central agricultural wages committee for Scotland, an authority on that subject.

He declared in an address he delivered on "The World's Wheat" that the world's supply for the current cereal year is more than equal to the demand and he predicted that on August 1 next there would be a surplus of exportable wheat left in the exporting countries. But, he said, this surplus outside Russia and India would not be large enough if the world's future weather proved unfavorable, the fall in the world's price of wheat might be checked and the price might even rise again.

For the world as a whole, he said, there is no more reason to fear a future permanent dearth of wheat than that the world will be starved of food generally. He predicted that some time within the next 20 years the gold, will return to a level not far from the pre-war average.

FINAL READING AMENDING
BILL ON PRISON ACT

Ottawa, May 6—(Canadian Press)—Third reading was given by the house this afternoon to a bill amending the prisons and reformatories act. One clause of the bill raises from 16 to 18 the age of people liable to be sent to penitentiaries. It had been minister of Justice, referring to this clause that the reformatories in many provinces were not prepared to take care of boys and young women between 16 and 18 and that it might be very dangerous for this class of criminals to associate with those of much younger ages.

Mr. Doherty accordingly made a movement providing that the clause under discussion would only come into effect in such provinces as the governor in council may from time to time prescribe. In other words, the clause would become operative when the province had suitable accommodation.

D. D. McKenzie (Cape Breton), thought that where the dominion parliament created an offense, it should be guilty of that offence instead of leaving the cost to be borne by the province.

Mr. Doherty replied that under the British North America act, the dominion was responsible for the maintenance of penitentiaries and the provinces were responsible for prisons and reformatories.

PEOPLE ARE PRETTY GOOD PEOPLE

People are pretty good people,
Taking them all in all;
You can find a good spot in the worst (Often it's very small);
But most of 'em go on trying,
Doing the best they can,
I haven't a rap for that hard-working chap,
The average human man.

People are pretty good people,
Trying hard to be kind,
And the wrong they do—except a few—
Is just because they're blind.
Blind and bothered and busy,
Harried by toil and strife—
For work and fret is the game they get
All of the years of life.

They do good deeds in silence,
Hiding their love away,
And few are told of the hearts of gold
Throbbing in mortal clay,
The hearts that always answer,
Hearing the rightful call—
People are pretty good people,
Taking them all in all.

SMASHING BACK

What won the war? (No, we didn't say "Who won the war?" That's been settled). What won the war? Why our everlasting keeping on the offensive—by "smashing back at Ypres—at Festubert—at St. Eloi—at Vimy—at Passchendaele and at Mons. We never admitted; we never thought of defeat. We kept on the offensive. We smashed back in night raids—in mines—in barrages and in bombing raids. Did we ever lose a chance to smash back at the Bosche—you bet we didn't—and we won out.

Do you get the idea?

The country merchant's enemy is dull trade poor business, slow turnover, slack times. You have to keep forever on the offensive against him. To keep him on the run you have to smash back with better advertising, a mine or two of newspaper advertisement, careful buying nationally advertised goods, stocking the goods your customers ask for and know. Just plant more newspaper advertising, more tising, and you've won out. Business success is yours.

Our mamma is very kind to us. Every time we drink our cod-liver oil without crying we get sixpence each. And what do you do with the money?
Mamma buys more oil with it.

Dependable Power for Your Belt Machines

Thirty-three per cent of farm tractor work is at the belt. Don't overlook this fact when buying an outfit. The use of a tractor for belt work opens up a large field, both on your own farm, and doing custom work for your neighbors.

One of the outstanding features of Waterloo Boy service is its dependable power on the belt, as well as on the drawbar.

JOHN DEERE
WATERLOO BOY TRACTOR

The Waterloo Boy's 25 H-P. twin-cylinder engine, operating on kerosene, runs your belt machines steadily and smoothly. You get that even flow of power so necessary in belt work.

The pulley wheel on the Waterloo Boy is mounted on an extension of the engine crank shaft. It is carried on wide, heavy-duty, Hyatt Roller Bearings. There are no gears in mesh to cause friction. All power goes directly to the belt. None is lost.

The powerful engine runs at low speed, permitting a large pulley wheel, with increased belt grip.

There is no slippage to wear the belt and cut down power.

A pulley clutch lever, operating from the tractor seat, gives smooth, steady starting and a quick stop. Your outfit is under instant control at all times—a decided advantage.

Thousands of farmers all over the country find the Waterloo Boy especially adapted to belt work. It runs their threshers, shredders, ensilage cutters, corn shellers, feed grinders, wood saws, and all other belt machines that are found on the farm. It furnishes them with economical, dependable power.

Come in and let us show you why the Waterloo Boy gives you real belt power, and why it is the profitable tractor for your farm.
